

THE AGE OF UNDERSTANDING

A MODERN PLEA TO THE CITIZENS OF THESE UNITED STATES

Written by
STAN KACZMAREK

Inspired by Thomas Paine

*A nation built by citizens.
A future secured by understanding.*

Why This Book

At the country's 250th birthday with much in disarray and many angry, confused, and fearful, this book applies an engineering mindset to look at how the United States was designed to tie us together, and what it is that is tearing us apart.

It is intended for first time and infrequent voters, those who try to avoid politics as much as possible, and those awakening to the sense that something is not right in this country. The hope is that by creating an opportunity for each of us to understand why we believe what we do, we may each learn and modify our positions - or at least accept the validity of other points of view.

If successful, then the nation wins: not the talking heads on TV, not the influencers on social media who want to keep us angry rather than educate us with the whole truth, and not the politicians who no longer listen to us and act like they will never be held to account.

EARLY REVIEWERS ARE SAYING

“Thoughtful, personal, insightful, intelligent yet accessible, and optimistic without being naive, this is a book our country needs right now.”

Hank S.
Communications Professional

“Magnificently expressed and urgently needed by We the People. Every sentence is educational and supremely thought and action provoking.”

Retired Business Executive

About Author

Stan Kazmarek is a Baby Boomer from New York who raised his family in New Jersey, the crossroads of the American Revolution.

Inspired by Thomas Paine, one of America's Founding Fathers, Stan's book is a reminder for all generations of where we came from, how we arrived here, and a call to reclaim our better angels through the conscious act of understanding.

Now retired after more than a decade in government working on energy issues, Stan continues to believe in practical solutions, constructive dialogue, and a more perfect understanding.
